Love the Lord your God and walk in all his ways. —Joshua 22:5

Questions for Reflection or Discussion

Starter Question

- From Sunday's sermon, what did you like best, or what caught your attention most—and why?

Observation—What do I see?

- Take a moment now to memorize Philippians 1:21 "To live is Christ, and to die is gain."

And now let's zoom out a bit to the context, in order to understand Paul. Read v. 12-24, and then...

- ↳ What are Paul's circumstances (v. 12)?
- ↳ What two things are resulting from Paul's circumstances (v. 14-17)?
- ↳ What two things will work together to produce Paul's certain deliverance (v. 19)?
- ↳ Since Paul referenced "living" and "dying" in v. 21, let's circle each reference to them in v. 20-24. (Make sure not to miss the more obscure references such as "depart" and "that" in v. 23 as references to death, "remain on in the flesh" in v. 24 as a reference to life, and "the two" in v. 23 as a reference to both life and death!)

Interpretation—What does it mean?

- In Paul's case, in what way is "living" equal to Christ? What does that really mean?

If "living is Christ", in what way is dying "gain" (v. 21) and "very much better" (v. 23)?
What is better than Christ?! How do you explain that?

- We all understand the concept of delayed gratification: forego a smaller personal pleasure now for the sake of a larger personal pleasure later. But is that what Paul's doing here? If not, what is he saying?

Application—What do I do with this?

- Who has heard someone say, "I'm livin' the dream!"? To what circumstances were they referring?

Under what circumstances might you—or, have you—said "I'm livin' the dream!"? Tell us about it.

- Parenting probably is the closest circumstance we've experienced which mirrors Paul's attitude. Another Apostle, John, shared Paul's joy, even amid difficult circumstances. Read 3 John 4. Who among us has experienced the joy of serving spiritual children? Would you tell us about it?

Sermon Summary Text: Philippians 1:18-30

When Paul penned his letter to the church at Philippi, he was imprisoned in Rome. All he cared was that the gospel be proclaimed—not who got the credit (v. 18). Paul states two things that he knows to be true: that his trust in God will be vindicated and that Jesus will be exalted in his life—either by his life or by his death (v. 20). For Paul, this was a no-lose proposition. Since Christ is glorified in Paul whether he lives or dies, and since the gospel is advancing whether Paul is free or imprisoned, should he stay or should he go? Which is preferable—living or dying? Paul walks us through his decision-making process (v. 22-24).

For Paul, the prospect of release from the pain, suffering, and hardships of life and be with Christ is clearly better (Revelation 7:16-17; 2 Corinthians 11:23-29). But for Paul there were other considerations to be taken into account (v. 24). What was best for the Philippians was that he remain to serve them (v. 25-26). It was most important to Paul that they conduct themselves in a manner worthy of the gospel, standing firm in one spirit, with one mind striving together for the faith of the gospel. Likewise, Jesus calls TCC to work together to transform ordinary people into extraordinary followers of Christ. We do that by helping people come to know Christ, to grow in Christ and to show Christ to others.

Conducting ourselves in a manner worthy of the gospel manifests itself both positively (standing firm in one spirit, with one mind striving together for the faith of the gospel) and negatively (shaping our response to opponents). Opposition can cause us to second-guess our decisions: "Should we have said/done this or that? Had we acted differently, would we have experienced less pushback?" So, how do we deal with the doubts and the second-guessing? We do it by going back to what we know to be true (v. 29-30). We remind ourselves that God will triumph in the end!

It has been granted to us, not only to believe in Jesus, but also to suffer for His sake. In the Christian life, faith and suffering travel together. Suffering is a special gift, graciously granted to us by God. It is a privilege to suffer for Christ. When it comes to difficulties, we all need a change of perspective. We shouldn't just reluctantly accept the fact that we may suffer for Christ; we should embrace it as a reality, and view it as a privilege (1 Peter 3:15).

* In the New Testament, the word "church" is used in two senses: (1) the universal church consists of all who place saving faith in Christ, irrespective of time or location, while (2) local churches consist of those in a single locale and period of time who meet together under God-ordained leadership (pastors/elders/overseers for worship, edification, mutual ministry and evangelism. God, being omniscient, flawlessly knows all his sheep (John 10:14-16), but local churches only are able to recognize and care for sheep as they unite with a congregation through the visible acts of entering (via baptism) and remaining involved.
